MRS. ALICE GRESHAM DODD, mother of the first American soldier killed in France, who gives entire credit for recovery of her health to the well-known medicine Tanlac.

The following remarkable endorsement of Tanlac was given recently by Mrs. Alice Gresham Dodd, at the Gresham Memorial Home, Gavin Park, Evansville, Ind., which home was presented to her by the patriotic people of Indiana, as evidence of their appreciation of the services rendered to his country by her son, Corporal James H. Gresham, the first American soldier killed in France. Expressions of sympathy were received by Mrs. Dodd from all parts of the United States, and the newspapers of the country carried the story of the first "war mother."

The shock of her son's death resulted in the serious breakdown of Mrs. Dodd's health, but everyone who learns with interest and pleasure that she is now in splendid health again. When seen at her home recently she made the following statement, giving the entire credit for her recovery to the well-known medicine, Tanlac.

"After my dear boy's death, I had a general breakdown in health," said Mrs. Dodd. "At first it was just indigestion. My food used to upset me and I had to diet myself very carefully, while wasn't much headship as I lost all desire to eat. Then I had an attack of rheumatism, with severe pains in my shoulders, back and arms. Sometimes I used to suffer a great deal, and my joints would get all swollen and stiff. I was able to do very little about the house, and at times couldn't even cook a meal. I got very nervous and restless, and at night would lay awake for hours, and just many a night's sleep as a consequence."

"A friend of mine had received a great deal of help from Tanlac, and it was his who advised me to try it. I am as glad I did for it proved the best medicine I have ever taken. It soon gave me a good appetite and seemed to settle my stomach so that I was no longer troubled with indigestion. I don't know what it is to have rheumatic pains now, the swelling and stiffness has all gone out of my joints and I am able to do the work of the house with the greatest ease. My nerves are now steady and strong. I sleep fine at night, and I feel better in health than ever before in my life. I shall always be grateful for what Tanlac has done for me, and shall recommend it every chance I get."

Tanlac is sold in El Paso by Kelly & Pollard.—Adv.

HART PRESENTS OWN CREATION

Bill Hart has worked into the plot of "The Toll Gate" all the features that distinguish him from other actors. He arranged all the settings for the great outdoors and all the cost supporting him are taken from western life. This is the first time Hart has acted as scenario of his own creation.

Hills in the southern part of Arizona and the northern part of Mexico, with their rocky surfaces, form the battle grounds and hiding places for bandits and outlaws. The scenes are some of the most picturesque ever shown on a screen.

The philosophy of the story is: "You can't tell how white a man's soul is by the color of his coat." Black Deering, king of outlaws, played by Bill Hart, proves this in Deering. Hart interprets all the manliness of a real man. The story is dramatic. The romance in it is hardly secondary; the primary feature is the wonderful charity and fairness a hardened criminal is capable of.

It is a big story. There isn't a thing trivial about it. One doesn't only see the picture, one feels it. It is the kind of picture one remembers. The story is wonderfully told and equally wonderfully acted. It is easily the best picture Hart has done. The picture is being shown at the Rialto theater tonight, Saturday and Sunday.
